THE RECORD.

In his speech last night Mr. Cassidy said the Republican party had devalued the public domain, and given it to the railroads as land-grants, while, "To the imperishable honor of the Democratic party, it has never given away one acre to any corporation under the sun."

Without arguing the wisdom of the land-grant policy, we will say that the Republican party is by no means responsible for its inauguration. The Illinois Central was granted, perhaps, the best body of land ever given to any company, on September 20, 1850, and a grant was made on the same day to the Mobile & Chicago and the Mobile & Ohio river roads. On February 9, 1853, a grant of 20 miles width was made to the St. Louis & Iron Mountain and another to the Little Rock & Fort-Smyth and Southern, and a similar one to the Memphis & Little Rock on the same day. On June 10, 1852, the Hannibal & St. Joseph was given a 15-mile belt, and the southwest branch of the Pacific road another. On May 17, 1856, the Alabama & Florida, the Florida railroad, the Pensacola & Georgia, the Florida & Alabama, the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central roads were given 15-mile tracts. On May 15, 1856, the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, the Burlington and Missouri, the Iowa Falls & Sioux City and the Dubuque and Sioux City got out one-mile grants on each side of their track. June 3d, 1856, the Selma Rome & Dalton, the Coosa & Tennessee, the Mobile & Girard, the Alabama & Chattanooga, the South & North Alabama, the North Louisiana & Texas, the New Orleans, Opelousas and Great Western, the Jackson, Lansing & Saginaw, the Flint & Pere Marquette, the Grand Rapids & Indiana, the Marquette, Houghton & Ontonagon, the West Wisconsin, the Wisconsin Farm Railroad Company, St. Croix & Lake Superior, St. Croix branch to Bayfield, Chicago & North Western, all got grants. On August 11, 1856, the Vicksburg & Meridian, the Gulf & Ship Island were given large grants. March 30, 1857, the St. Paul & Pacific, the Winona & St. Peter and the St. Paul & Sioux City were given 20-mile grants, and all these were congressional grants, and by Democratic Congresses, too.

THANKSGIVING.

President Arthur has appointed Thursday, the thirtieth day of November next, as a day of public thanksgiving. His proclamation concludes as follows: "I do recommend that the day be observed throughout the country as a day of National thanksgiving and prayer, and that the people, ceasing from their daily labor and meeting in accordance with their several forms of worship, draw near to the throne of Almighty God, and offer to Him praise and gratitude for the manifold good which He has vouchsafed to us, and praying that His blessings and mercies may continue. And I do further recommend that the day thus appointed may be made a special occasion for the deeds of kindness and charity to the suffering and needy, so that all that dwell within the land may rejoice and be glad in this season of national thanksgiving."

STATE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Proceedings of Great Interest to Lovers of Free Schools.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON'S SESSION.

The most interesting session of the Institute was held yesterday afternoon. Miss Maggie Holmes opened the exercises with a select reading, which was received with great applause.

Mrs. Scoville followed with an excellent paper on the kindergarten system, written by Miss S. E. Blow of St. Louis. Mrs. Scoville has been for some time engaged in teaching this system to the young mind, and is admirably fitted for the work. She explained that the kindergarten aimed at drawing out the mental faculties of the young child and not at cramming its head with a lot of undigested facts gathered from books. There is no overloading of the memory, no dull, tedious work, but only healthy, happy employment; and while book study was not deprecated, Mrs. Scoville showed that it was a far nobler work to lead the child to think and invent for itself than to merely parrot the words and thoughts of others. The lady also said that for one to be successful in the work she must be enthusiastic; and if that be the essential element of success, undoubtedly Mrs. Scoville possesses it to a perfect degree. In conclusion, she commended to all teachers the inscription over the grave of Froebel, the father of kindergartens: "Come, let us live for our children." Then followed the reading of Miss Blow's paper, which was most interesting. It can be obtained by anyone desiring to examine the principles of the system by applying to E. Steiger, 25 Park place, New York.

Professor C. S. Young of Gold Hill read an essay on "Progressive Methods of Teaching." It was practically a resume of Professor Young's arguments on the same subject published some time ago in the Virginia Enterprise. The hints given were very good. Spelling should be more written than oral. Political favoritism in making appointments of teachers was severely condemned. The idea that natural sciences should be taught in the earlier stages of education was successfully combated. Oral and vivid word-picture instruction in all branches was commended, rather than the dry study of the text-book. The absurdity of overloading the mind with many useless things was shown, and the lecturer evidently had the sympathy of his hearers on this point, as shown by their applause. The microscopic topographical monstrosities of geography were shown up, and a sensible method of teaching that science commended. Professor Young concluded this most interesting and able essay with the beautiful thought, "I believe that education is not worthy the name if it does not inspire its pupils to study from a love of it."

The afternoon's exercises closed with a full and exhaustive lecture by Rev. George W. James of Eureka, on "Music in Schools." Mr. James spoke for about an hour, and in that time argued the utility and helpfulness of teaching vocal music in schools. He contended that music was as helpful as a mental discipline, as any of the mathematical or classical courses, and that to most of the scholars it is far more interesting. The purport of the lecture was then as follows: "All children can sing. It is as natural and easy to sing as to talk. Shall scholars, then, be taught merely by rote, or by method, if by rote, the pupil learns but the one song taught, without any capacity to learn another song; but if by method, he can sing one song as well as another, and, indeed, be furnished with a wellspring of happiness from which he may continually draw. But can this be done? Undoubtedly it can. Thousands of scholars in England are certified sight-singers, and these are taught in public schools. Rev. John Curwen invented a new notation, by means of which this object is to be attained. Street Arabs in mission schools, high school scholars, students for Queen's prizes, and candidates preparing for graduation in music, alike sing choruses in its praise." Mr. James then proceeded to a scientific explanation of the system, which was listened to with marked interest. It is understood that the editor of the Pacific coast school Journal has arranged with the reverend gentleman to give a complete and exhaustive exposition of this method in an early number of that paper. The lecture was illustrated and enlivened by songs rendered by some of the Reno scholars to whom Mr. James had given a few minutes' instructions.

EVENING SESSION.

The evening session began with a beautiful song rendered in a most artistic manner by Mrs. Fisher and Professor Albert Lyser. The editor of the School Journal then followed with a most able lecture, given in an admirable manner, on "Fiction; Its Uses and Abuses." There is neither time nor space to give even a portion of his lecture to the readers of the GAZETTE at present, but it shall appear in a few days.

Rev. George W. James then followed by calling ten or a dozen young ladies upon the stand to reply to any question that might be asked about the calendar of 1882. Only a few minutes' instruction had been given to the class and yet they replied to all the questions asked with a readiness that was astonishing to all present. Miss Cara and Mr. Dick Jose then delighted the audience with a duet, and Miss Alice Wiley's song (encored), rendered in a charming manner, completed the most interesting session, so far, of the State Teachers' Institute.

FRIDAY MORNING EXERCISES.

Miss Wiley opened exercises with a song.

Mr. Cosgrove, agent for Appleton's charts, appeared before the Institute for the purpose of explaining said charts.

Professor Young made a motion that Mr. A. Kaye be admitted to the Committee on Resolutions. This motion was seconded and carried. Mr. Oman motioned that Mr. Kaye be introduced to the Institute. This motion was carried.

Miss Ella McNeely read an interesting essay on "How to make study interesting."

A discussion followed on the best method of discipline in schools which was participated in by many of the teachers.

Adjourned until 3 o'clock P. M.

To-morrow's Institute work will consist of reports of committees, general talks on the merits and defects of the public schools, opening of query-box, etc. The evening will be devoted to a miscellaneous entertainment given by the teachers.

WESTERN TELEGRAMS.

A Woman Poisoned with Arsenic. SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Oct. 27. Mrs. J. W. Earns of Galeta was poisoned yesterday by taking a dose of arsenic under the supposition that it was magnesia. Earns and his wife have quarreled almost continuously during the past year, and he was at one time arrested for whipping her. A divorce was finally obtained, but last Sunday Earns visited the house, taking with him a can of powder. A portion of this powder was taken by Mrs. Earns, and after suffering terrible agony for some hours she died last evening. There is considerable excitement in the community.

Won't Renew the Discussion.

TUCSON, October 26. Ben Morgan publishes a card this afternoon withdrawing his previous letter of retraction to W. B. Horton of personalities employed in a pamphlet recently issued by him, and accepting a challenge sent him by Horton. Horton claims that the difficulty was terminated by the letter of retraction, and refuses to renew the discussion.

FOREIGN TELEGRAPH.

An Arctic Searcher Wrecked. LONDON, October 27. Sir Henry Gore Booth's yacht Kara, one of the vessels which went to the Arctic in search of Leigh Smith and party, has been wrecked while on the way from Hartlepool to Wiverton, England. All on board were saved.

They Had Their Choice.

CAIRO, October 27. Professor Palmer and party were led to the edge of a precipice and offered the alternative of throwing themselves over or being shot. It is supposed that Prof. Palmer leaped over, and that Captain Gill and Lieutenant Charrington chose the other alternative and were put to death.

EASTERN DISPATCHES.

Buried Alive. SHENANDOAH, Pa., October 26. This afternoon three brothers, Peter, James and Henry Sheetz, Timothy Reynolds and Robert Hanna, were entombed at Packer Colliery, operated by the Lehigh Valley Company, by the caving in of a drift. It is not known whether they are dead or alive. A rescue party is at work.

The Six Day Match.

NEW YORK, October 27. The score stood at 3 P. M.: Fitzgerald 490, Noremack 473, Hertz 450, Hughes 453, Hart 439, Vint 415.

Information Wanted.

George Laniger left Reno about the middle of last June for Oregon, where he went to buy sheep. He left here in company with a man named Henry Anderson, and has not been heard from since. Laniger is about six feet in height, dark complexion, dark curly hair, dark mustache, heavy set, broad shoulders, and is 25 years of age. Any information as to his whereabouts will be thankfully received by his sister, Mrs. M. Graff, Reno, Nevada. Oregon and California papers please copy.

Pasture Spoiled.

In Douglas county, it is said, the pasture lands were so thoroughly soaked by the late rains that the sudden coming of the frosts killed the grass, and the result is that the usual fall pasturage is greatly impaired.

DEMOCRATIC THUNDER.

George W. Cassidy Tells Many Things, Most of Which Are Not Facts.

The Nevada Theater was opened last evening to give Hon. George W. Cassidy an opportunity to tell the voters of Washoe county what the Democratic party has been doing for the last three decades. The theater was comfortably filled with both Democrats and Republicans—with the Republicans in the majority.

Hon. Jerry Schooling called the meeting to order. General J. R. Kittrell was selected Chairman, and after making a few remarks introduced GEORGE W. CASSIDY.

Mr. Cassidy said that he was proud of the reception accorded him and glad to meet his Washoe county friends once more. He said he was used up from the effects of his long campaign, badly out of voice and begged the indulgence of his hearers, trusting that they would overlook any shortcomings. He said: "I am not here to misrepresent any party or individual. As for myself, I would rather be defeated for any office to which I aspire than to knowingly traduce or misrepresent any political opponent." The speaker then undertook the task of convincing his hearers that to the Democratic party belonged the glory and fruits of the war. He said: "It is to the Democratic party and to the Democratic idea of government that we owe this government, which has been the happiest and most prosperous government ever known in the world. In the convention which framed the constitution of the United States, the Democratic idea prevailed. It was the wisdom of Democratic statesmen that devised this government. Democratic statesmen not only formulated and launched this government, but also faithfully guarded it down to 1860. During the time the Democratic party was in power it acquired every broad acre of the public domain that has been added to the thirteen original States, with the exception of Alaska. It was the Democratic party that secured Louisiana, thus getting control of the mouth of the Mississippi river. It was the Democratic party or administration that admitted Texas to the Union. It was the Democratic party that fought the war with Mexico, and by treaty secured all the territory west of the Missouri river to the Pacific Ocean."

"Though the Democratic party," said Mr. Cassidy, "has secured so much of the public domain, it has never given a single acre to any corporation under the sun. How stands the Republican record? To six corporations it has given land of the public domain equal in extent to the New England States, and the States of New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio combined—equal to almost one third of the territory of the entire Union."

In this, as in many other things, the speaker grossly misrepresented facts and galloped along regardless of historical truths in that connection. We have looked up the record on that subject, which will be found on the editorial page.

Mr. Cassidy said: "It was not out of politics the war grew. It was caused by a domestic institution for which the Democratic party was in no way responsible. Out of the 76 Generals who were first to volunteer their services to the Government 62 had been life-long Democrats. He named Generals Grant, McClellan, Stoneman, Mead, Rosecrans, Hancock and others in his list. He said the military schools of the country, including West Point, had up to 1860 been under Democratic control, and that the Generals he named being in a Democratic atmosphere were naturally Democrats. The speaker then, quoting from the Democratic National Campaign Committee, said there were 1,400,000 men in the Union army than Lincoln received votes in 1860, and asked where they came from.

The silver question was next in order, and Mr. Cassidy thundered about like a whale with a harpoon in the side, in an endeavor to show that the Republican party demonetized silver in 1874, and that the Democrats demonetized it in 1879. His attempt to hoodwink the audience on the subject was as shallow as many other of his misrepresentations. Speaking of the resumption act he said that it received the unanimous vote of both parties. The records, however, contradict him.

In 1874 the resumption act was voted for with the following result:

	For.	Against.
Senate—
Republicans	32	1
Democrats	0	13
Liberals	0	1
House—
Republicans	139	25
Democrats	0	2
Liberals	0	2

The Democrats introduced a bill to repeal the resumption act, and a vote was taken in the House Aug. 5, 1875, resulting as follows:

	For.	Against.
Republicans	10	55
Democrats	93	27
Liberals	3	3

In the House, Nov. 23, 1877:

	For.	Against.
Republicans	29	92
Democrats	104	28

In the House, Feb. 24, 1879:

	For.	Against.
Republicans	4	114
Democrats	106	27

In speaking on the Chinese question he said there was no diversity of opinion on this coast; that all the Pacific coast representation in Congress worked faithfully and well to pass the restriction bill. The railroads received attention, and he referred to the Regan bill, which provides that inter-State railroads shall not pool their earnings; and that they shall not discriminate against localities or sections, and that they shall not charge more for a lesser than a greater service. He promised to support the bill every time it came up.

The speaker thought it unwise and dangerous to frequently tamper with the tariff, and said the two great parties differed only as to how the tariff should be regulated.

He said that the Nevada Indian war claims allowed would, by the first of the coming January, bring about $300,000 into our State Treasury. He spoke of what the Democratic party had done for the State of Nevada during the two terms of Bradley's administration. He said Bradley found the State $500,000 in debt, and left it with over $700,000 in the treasury. He forgot to say, however, that the tax on bullion taken from the Crown Point, Belcher and bonanza mines was what filled our treasury. He also forgot to tell the voters how hard he worked and how eloquent he was when on the floor of the State Senate and wanted the very law repealed that brought that money into the vaults of the State Treasury. Mr. Cassidy talked on that question during the ninth session of Nevada Legislature until his voice failed him. He consumed one entire afternoon trying to convince his colleagues that the law should be repealed, and now tries to convey the idea that his acts and the acts of his party during those years paid up $500,000 indebtedness and put $700,000 in our vaults. Cassidy and his party had just about as much to do in making our State prosperous during the time Bradley occupied the executive chair as Jeff Davis did in preserving the flag of the United States during the war of the rebellion.

Mr. Ernst and Mr. Merrill followed Mr. Cassidy by saying a few words for themselves as candidates on the ticket, and the band played "Hail Columbia" (music that Democrats did not care to hear during the war), when the meeting adjourned.

Senator Jones and Hon. C. E. Laughton To-morrow Evening.

Senator J. P. Jones and Hon. C. E. Laughton will speak in Reno to-morrow night. The name of Nevada's distinguished Senator ought to be sufficient to pack the theater from pit to dome, aside from his eloquence as a public speaker. The orator who delivered the world-famous speech in the Senate chamber of the United States on the silver question should command a large audience anywhere.

Various speakers during the campaign have touched upon the subject, but none are so competent to handle it as Senator Jones. No doubt his speech will be a finished lecture, of interest to all. Major Laughton will also "tell his experience," and explain to the people why they should vote the straight Republican ticket.

Frank Mayo in "Davy Crockett."

Frank Mayo, with a strong company, including Miss Charlotte Behrens, will appear at the Nevada Theater next Friday night, November 3d, in "Davy Crockett," the title character of which Mr. Mayo has been so long identified with that it has become almost second nature with him to play it. It has been his favorite for twelve years, during which time he has accumulated a fortune by producing it throughout the country. Everything connected with the presentation of the play is strictly first-class, which is something seldom seen in Reno.

Candidates' Ball at Glendale.

The Washoe county candidates will give a ball at Glendale next Thursday evening, and if there is any weight in the fact that they are all "on the dance," a good time is assured. It is a pleasant three-mile ride from Reno to Glendale, and as there will be a bright moon, jolly company and good music, those who attend cannot but enjoy themselves.

Election Bets.

W. R. Chamberlain to-day bet G. W. Baker $100 to $5 that Powning will have a majority in this county. Baker bet Chamberlain $100 even up that Cassidy will have 600 majority in the eastern counties. It's dollars to rotten apples that Chamberlain wins both bets.

Carelessness.

The County Central Committee are putting up posters with the name of G. C. Powning for Congress and George Tuffy for State Treasurer upon them. Who is G. C. Powning and who is George Tuffy? The Central Committee's Committee on Printing should be more careful.

Held to Appear.

In the preliminary examination of George and James Millner and Mrs. Butt, for the murder of Harvey Dilley at Truckee, Justice Weller held Chas. Millner to appear before the Grand Jury, and discharged the other two. The examination lasted two days and created considerable interest.

Married.

Albert Gallatin, of the firm of Huntington, Hopkins & Co., Sacramento, and Miss Nellie Robin, daughter of Charles Robin, of the same city, were married at New York on October 21st.

DEATH OF OLD WINNEMUCCA.

He Orders His Young Squaw to be Stoned to Death.

FORT BIDWELL, October 23.

ED. GAZETTE: I stopped at old Winnemucca's rancho three days ago, and found the old chief in a dying condition. He was lying beside a fire in his wickiup, wrapped in a rabbit-skin robe, with his feet buried in warm ashes and a mahala fanning him with a bush. He was thoroughly prostrated and did not seem to realize the presence of any one. His son Lee and a daughter were there from Bidwell, and realized the inevitable fate of their aged father. When asked if they gave him medicine they replied that the old chief wouldn't take any, neither would he eat anything. The history of Winnemucca for the past two months, as related to me by a settler in the vicinity of Copersmith station, on the south side of Surprise valley, where the chief was taken sick, is as follows: He and his young squaw started from Pyramid nearly two months ago, for Bidwell. On the way the venerable warrior was taken sick and obliged to camp near Copersmith's rancho. He blamed the squaw for making him sick, and finally ordered her to be put to death; but first he ordered her to go to a spring a short distance off and wash her body daily for a certain number of days, after which she was to be stoned to death for bewitching him. The squaw realized her danger, and apparently obeying orders, went to the spring with a rope and hung herself to a post. An Indian watcher saw her attempt at suicide and cut her down. This circumstance was related to the dying chief, who ordered her to be put to death immediately. Since then the young squaw has not been seen or heard of, and the supposition is that Winnemucca's orders were fully carried out and that the woman was executed in some out-of-the-way place. Nothing certain is known, but the presumption is strong that she was beaten to death with stones and clubs. There were about 100 Indians present. The next day, the 21st, old Winnemucca passed in his checks, and now all the Indians about Bidwell are holding a grand pow-wow over the dead Piute chieftain.

DANIEL MURPHY.

Sketch of the Great Stock Dealer and Large Land Owner.

Daniel Murphy, who died at Hallock, Nev., a few days ago, was one of the pioneers of the Pacific Coast, having arrived here in 1844. He was a native of Quebec, Canada, and at the time of his death was 56 years old. In 1842 he removed with his father and the remainder of his family to what was then the wilds of Missouri. There the family remained until late in 1843, when Martin, the elder son, and his children, Martin, James, John, Bernard, Johanna (now Mrs. Fitzgerald of Gilroy), Mary (now Mrs. Miller of San Rafael), Helen (now Mrs. Weber of Stockton), Margaret (afterward Mrs. Kell of Santa Clara, Cal., now deceased) and Daniel, the subject of this sketch, who was then about sixteen years old, started overland for California. On the way out, crossing the Sierra, the party divided at Truckee. John, Daniel and their sister Helen (Mrs. Townsend), Oliver Magnus and one or two others branched off and went down to Lake Tahoe. Daniel Murphy was the first white man who ever gazed on that beautiful lake. It was the Murphy party who christened Truckee river, it being called after their Indian guide. The deceased leaves a widow and two children—Daniel and Diana—his eldest daughter, Mrs. Chapman, having died several years ago. Daniel Jr., is now about 22 years old. Deceased spent the greater portion of his time in Arizona, Nevada and Mexico, for several years giving personal attention to his large stock interests in the valleys and ranges of those places. His business ever since he came to the coast has been stock-raising. He first had large tracts in the south end of Santa Clara county, Cal., and as his herds grew he went into San Joaquin valley. The "no-fence" law forced him to take his cattle to Nevada. He owned about 200,000 acres of land in this State when he died, and 6,000,000 in the State of Durango, Mexico, and large tracts in Arizona, and was, at the time of his death, the largest land-owner in the world. The main railroad running through Mexico will go through his land. A few weeks ago he, with another gentleman, purchased the great Don Juan Foster ranch, fronting on the southern coast of California, paying therefor $450,000. He had also, it is stated, just completed arrangements for the entire purchase of the cattle interest of Wm. Dunphy of San Francisco. Daniel Murphy, like all of Martin Murphy's family, was very widely known on this coast, and generally liked. He was unpretentious, good-natured and warm-hearted.

A Grand Time for Republicans To-Night.

Hon. Enoch Strother, the next Governor of Nevada, with Messrs. Tuffy, Dormer and Stevens, will disseminate true Republicanism at the theater to-night, when a large crowd may be expected to turn out to listen to them. There will be but a few more campaign meetings, and all who wish to know just how a good citizen should stand ought to be on hand.
